Job Description

Key duties and Responsibilities

• Operate and drive cars, vans, and light-duty trucks to pick up and drop off a wide range of items, including food orders, printed materials, baked goods, dairy products, and services such as dry cleaning.
• Distribute newspapers, pamphlets, flyers, phone books, and similar materials to both residential and commercial locations.
• Complete vehicle inspections before and after each shift to ensure safe operation.
• Organize delivery routes and plan travel schedules for efficient service.
• Load and unload packages, merchandise, or other goods as required.
• Provide customer support by delivering products along assigned routes, processing payments, and handling sales when applicable.

• Maintain logs and records related to deliveries, pick-ups, mileage, fuel usage, and report any issues or unusual events encountered during routes.

• May scan, sort, or organize parcels and freight prior to delivery.

• May assemble, set up, or install products or equipment upon delivery.

• May stay in communication with the main dispatch center through mobile or digital communication tools.

Requirements/Education and other requirements

• Completion of some secondary school is typically expected.

• A valid driver’s licence that matches the type of vehicle operated is required.

• Employers generally look for at least one year of incident-free driving experience.

• Training is often provided directly on the job.

• For certain delivery or courier positions, applicants may need to qualify for bonding and obtain certification for transporting dangerous goods (TDG).
